Steamer Swan and Slackwater Encounter Difficulty in Pulling Away When Swift Current Opens Breach

RIVER DROPS TO SIX FEET

In Few Hours Time River Falls Many Feet—Transportation Heads of Coal Concerns Worried—One Barge Sinks Just Below Lock

Forced by a tremendous rush of water, a break of from 100 to 200 feet in the dam at Lock No. 4 occurred this morning at 2 o'clock, practically putting an end to navigation from the fourth Monongahela river pool and badly crippling water service of industries along the valley. Though an immediate start was made on temporarily filling in the breach, it will be four days or a week before there can be any relief of consequence.

Soon after the fourth pool had begun to empty, the steamer Fallie of the Pittsburg Coal company, more daring than others attempted to pass down stream. The result was that one of her flats, containing possibly 8,000 bushels of coal was sunk just below the lock, adding to the general damage. Towboats of the Vesta Coal and other companies were hung up both above and below the lock awaiting an opportunity to get through. Capt. Robert Elsey, who is in charge of the transportation end of the Vesta Coal company business was on the scene early giving his personal attention to the work. At 10 o'clock the river had dropped on the upper sill to 6 feet, preventing loaded barges from any attempt to get through. However the Vulcan, a light towboat managed to make its way through. The lower river is all right. In order to prevent a greater drop moveable weirs were raised at Lock No. 3.

The break came suddenly and without warning. Last week the first break occurred, when 80 feet of the dam was washed out from the hard usage it sustained when two barges were wrecked a year ago. The Swan under Capt. William Shannon and the Slackwater under Capt. James T. Nutt were busy repairing this old break Tuesday night and had put affairs in fairly good shape so that an early completion of the temporary work was expected. When the rush of water it seemed for a time as though the Swan and the Slackwater would be engulfed, so strong did the current become. Then with considerable tugging, through the aid of a stout anchor line attached to one of the large stone piers of the Monessen-Charlottesville bridge they were able to pull back to a point of comparative safety. When the waters subsided a trifle they moved to the government docks to be put in shape for the difficult work of repairing the widening gap.

Within a period of about six hours the river on the upper gauge at Lock No. 4 dropped from 11 to six feet. This was that put an end to navigation and left the suction pipes of nearly all industries in the fourth pool from North Charleroi to Brownsville high and dry. Charleroi industries saved themselves by quickly switching to the lines of the Tri Cities Water company, which started its pumps going at a great rate in order to provide a sufficient supply. However, connections have had to be broken with the industries in order to save water for individual consumption. In the dawn of the early morning factory men were out lengthening their pipes to extend far out into the receding river. Especially was this true at the Macbeth-Evans Glass plant and the Pittsburg Plate Glass company plant. At Newell the General Chemical company with an 18 inch main experienced much trouble.

Fully $30,000 damage was done by the break, according to the officer in charge of the river work. Fully this much will be spent before adequate repairs can be made.

To close the break four 20-foot crabs will be hurriedly built at the government yards and filled with stone and sunk by the demark boat just above the broken part of the dam. Heavy timbers will be nailed against them and in back of these after some filling is done, steel piling will be driven. Below the lock an enclosure will be finally built, preventing any further break.

The leak will be stopped and the work be made permanent toward the reconstruction of the entire dam. Not without danger and much difficulty will the first and most important part of the work be done because of the strong current, but the government force, with the friendly aid of stout lines and convenient bridge piers on which to hook them, anticipate no delays.

Capt. Elsey and other transportation heads of the great Monongahela river coal systems were considerably worried about the prospects. The Vesta Coal company mines are all above No. 4 and the company does its shipping by river. The supply of coal is barely in keeping with the demand as it is, and the suspension of navigation is hitting them hard.

At 10 o'clock rivermen and government men were hopeful that the upper pool had about dropped its limit, though water was still going through the opening at a great rate. When the break occurred there were fully two feet of water over the dam and an excellent shipping stage existed.

Mrs. Matt Golle and son Willis of Koscoe visited with friends in Charleroi Tuesday.

SOCIAL PROGRAM CARRIED OUT BY WESTMINSTER GUILD

Interesting Meeting Held at Home of Miss Bess Ritchey—Missionary Work in India Described

The Westminster Guild of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening in the home of Miss Bess Ritchey on Look-out avenue. It being the closing meeting of the church year a special program was carried out. Miss Holiday a teacher in the public schools of Monessen gave an interesting address on India, drawing her remarks largely from letters written by her parents who have been missionaries in India for 27 years. The work in Japan was presented by Miss Marion Benedict and Miss Bessie Johnson. Mrs. Herbert Greaves contributed a solo accompanied by Miss Bethel Bowman. The guild voted to contribute to the support of Miss Trnavsky who is doing missionary work among the Slavoc people in the valley. Miss Rockwell gave a synopsis of a kindergarten work among the people of the old world. Mrs. Gray Gaut was elected a delegate to the guild conference to be held in the East Liberty Presbyterian church on Thursday of this week. One new member was received and several visitors were present.

BRIDGE COMPANY SAYS JURY WAS PREJUDICED

In Motion For New Trial New Kensington Concern Tells How Publication of News in Newspaper Influenced Opinion

In the suit of the New Kensington Bridge Co., against Westmoreland county in which the jury in this county found for the plaintiff in $108,500, additional reasons for a new trial have been filed. In this suit the county appealed from the award of the jurors and the bridge company now seeks to have a new trial. In the additional reasons filed Tuesday it is set forth that "the plaintiff has been informed and believes that agents of Westmoreland county, one of the defendants named, caused to be printed in the Washington Observer, Washington Daily News and Washington Reporter, three newspapers published in the borough of Washington certain statements as to the value of the property taken and proof that would be presented to the jury, which statements were distorted and misleading and were published during the days the cause was being presented to the jury, and were read by members of the jury, and were calculated to prejudice the minds of the jury in favor of the defendant."

INSPECT LAND AT DUNLEVY FOR TRAINING CAMP

Local Committee Proposes to Use Bottom Land if Volunteers Are Called

Inspection of the Dunlevy bottom which will be used as a point of mobilization and as a training grounds in case a western Pennsylvania regiment is formed with headquarters at Charleroi, was made by a local committee Tuesday evening. The entire bottom from Fitzgerald stop to Vesta is available and will be used if needed.

Others in addition to those first mentioned in the movement to enlist are evincing an interest in the affairs of the local company, with the result that three more persons have offered their services. They are Fred Ohliger, Lee F. Howser and T. P. Oates. A young man of 18 arrived today from Greensburg and said he had come to enlist. He was given a position in a Monessen steel mill for the time being and his name placed on the official paper.

CANONSBURG MAN IS STATE ROADS HEAD

R. L. Munce Elected President—All Phases of Road Improvement Problem Discussed at State Association Meeting on Monday

County Agriculturist J. M. McKee and R. L. Munce of Canonsburg returned home Tuesday night from the annual meeting of the State Good Roads association held Monday in the capitol at Harrisburg. Mr. Munce was reelected president of the organization. Dr. W. D. Martin of Sparta, who also was a delegate to the convention was named a member of the legislative committee which will advocate needed changes in the road laws.

The convention was well attended, almost 50 of the 67 counties of the state being represented. Every phase of the road improvement problem as it occurs in Pennsylvania was discussed and some new features brought out which are expected to result beneficially to the state. One of the most instructive addresses was that (illustrated) on concrete highways.

McKee county delegates reported the approval by the voters of a $750,000 bond issue for roads. McKee county, has a valuation of about $17,000,000.

Copies of the papers referred to were filed with the motion for a new trial, shortly after the case was heard.

Investigation Into Death of Donora Boy Leads to Timely Suggestion

AUTOIST IS NOT BLAMED

Investigating the accident which resulted Sunday in the death of James Simpson, a small boy of Donora, the coroner's jury at Donora this morning recommended that the state and county in improving roads make arrangements for pedestrians the same as for vehicles. It came out in the inquest that the boy had been run down while walking on the Donora-Monongahela road, where conditions are similar to those on the road between Charleroi and Speers.

Morris Rozner was the automobile driver whose machine struck the lad and he was absolved from blame. He had just passed another machine when he struck the boy.

A large number of people were walking on the road Sunday and the Simpson boy was among them. There is no place except in the bricked street for people to walk and there is little protection for pedestrians. In their finding the jury was influenced by this fact.

COAL COMPANIES ARE DEMANDING BIG RAISE

Industrial and other consumers using a large amount of coal have been notified of a large increase by the companies furnishing fuel. The advance is from $1.50 a ton under old contracts to $3.50 under those now being made.

The increase is reported to be general. The new price is being demanded by the Pittsburg Coal company as well as the Youghiogheny & Ohio company.

Notice to Water Consumers
On account of the dam at Lock No. 4 breaking it has lowered the river to such an extent as to almost prevent the operation of our pumps. However we are able to operate our pumps at present, but not to their fullest capacity. In order for us to insure the domestic consumers service it became necessary to shift off all industrial consumers. We respectfully urge upon all consumers to be as saving with water as possible until we are able to install special equipment to meet this unusual condition.

VICKERMAN LOCAL OPTION BILL GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

The Vickerman local option bill was defeated in the house of representatives Tuesday after a long debate by a vote of 127 to 72. Many speeches were made and the measure fell because the proper effort by some alleged local optionists was not made in the 1916 primary, when members of the present legislature were nominated. Gov. M. G. Brumbaugh, who declared for local option on many occasions, devoted his activities to running for the Republican presidential nomination at that time. One-half the activity then for local option, which he devoted this winter to try to elect a speaker of the house, would have worked wonders.

Representatives Baker, McPeake and Spruill of Washington county voted against the bill.

NO "BACKING AND FILLING."

Secretary Lansing, acting for President Wilson, has had a conference with the leading Republicans of the United States senate and has returned back to his chief that all the Republican senators will be behind him at all times while he is in office and will maintain the honor of his nation.

President Wilson is disposed to have both branches of the American Congress, called into special session on April 2, organized along non-partisan lines. In a partisan contest it is highly probable that the lower house would be organized by the Republicans while the senate will continue under Democratic control.

Naturally the president desires to have united support should war overcome, and the conference between his secretary of state and Senators Lodge, Penrose and other Republicans prominent in senatorial affairs, was a step in that direction.

Secretary Lansing was authorized to inform the president that the Republican senators to a man would be behind him in every patriotic move made by him. The Republican senators, however, gave notice that they would refuse to support any "backing and filling" on the part of the president.

Senator Penrose explained that he was not hysterical over the war prospect, but he declared emphatically that he would in every possible way support the president in every effort at preparedness which he contended had been woefully neglected up to the present time, although war has been in prospect for at least a year.

The bankers and the captains of industry the country over, Senator Penrose explained had prepared for the coming conflict, and he was in favor of compelling the government to prepare also.

He insisted that only the government was unprepared and he urged that the utmost speed be given by the government in the necessary preparations for what is certain to be an extraordinary mental physical and financial test.

FOOD IMPORTANT

Every bit as serious as the agricultural department considers it is the matter of food supply for the American army and navy that daily events indicate will be used against Germany. Wise indeed in the movement to tabulate the list of resources is the decision to include available farms.

Only the native endurance of Washington's men at Valley Forge enabled them to maintain their wonderful courage in the face of tremendous odds. With little clothing and little food the starving band made a remarkable stand. But they could not possibly have endured such hardships an unlimited period for famished men have little vitality.

England proposed to starve Germany into submission when the war abroad began. This was impossible because of Germany's resources, but the theory that a starving army could not offer effective resistance held true nevertheless. Germany was prepared and it would have been just as easy to starve England as the Fatherland.

The United States in case of war needs to be prepared in every detail as does Germany. It needs fighting men in large numbers on sea and land, but it must have means of feeding them. By reason of its vast resources, with careful cultivation and intelligent cooperation, the food question will not be a difficult one to handle.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

THE LAW'S LETTER WINS

Henry Ford said in explaining some things connected with his company's practices that so far as essentials are concerned, it costs the poor man as much to bring up his children as it costs the rich man. Possibly he might have said that a man with only one eye is just as blind when he loses that one in an industrial accident as if he lost both, and might reasonably be considered as a blind man, although his one eye was blinded by a piece of steel.

The Workmen's Compensation Board encountered a case a few days ago the conditions of which were not defined as a possibility, for no specific terms to meet the case in the compensation law. This leaves a man totally disabled and blind through the loss of his remaining eye, standing as a blind man and not a partially disabled man, a potential confusion which might have been avoided by deciding more under the spirit of the law and less under the letter of its formal use. One proposed in the compensation for the loss of one eye for seven periods and specific rate, and another for total blindness and complete disability by the loss of sight. One official rule in favor of total disability, and the other in favor of seven periods and

specific rate, and another for total
blindness and complete disability by
the loss of sight. One official rule
in favor of total disability, and the other in favor of seven periods and
specific rate, and another for total
blindness and complete disability by the loss of sight.

The workman is blind totally disabled, unfit for work of any kind, and the fact is admitted by all except the employers, who, of course, in the award for complete disability and disability denied only on the technical ground that since the man had only one eye when he entered his employment his last employers should not be asked to pay for a prior disability without which the victim would not now be blind. If the law proposes to save totally disabled workmen injured at their regular employment from churing it can reach that desirable end easily by giving all possible consideration to the question of disability when the integrity of the claim is not disputed. If that had been done in the discussed case the compensation board would not be in the position of officially declaring an eyeless man blind.—The Pittsburgh Dispatch.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST BOOK

In almost any company one might get up a controversy about the inspiration of the Bible, considered as a religious doctrine but in no intelligent company could one meet with any doubt of the inspiration which the Bible itself supplies to the tongues and the pens of the world. In the whole range of English literature there is not another volume of any kind—not even Poor Richard's Almanack—which supplies a title of its matter suitable to the instant pointing of a moral or the effective adornment of a tale. The adaptability of its phases, its stories and its persons to illustration of life and thought proves its extraordinary literary value.
If literature is a criticism of life, the Bible is certainly great literature. The Bible has turned the scale in more law suits and passed more bills in congress than any other book. The orator with the Bible at his tongue's end may always have his listeners with him; but woe to him if his opponent knows it better than he does! The Christian Register tells a story which illustrates this. Senator George F. Hoar, advocating in the senate a generous hospitality in this country to immigrants quoted loosely from the Acts of the Apostles: "God hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on the face of the earth." The effect was stirring until an opponent of the bill called out:
"Why does not the senator quote the rest of the text?" "What is that?"
asked Hoar, and the other answered:
"And hath fixed the bounds of their habitation!" On that occasion the Bible turned out to be an influence in favor of restriction.—Boston Transcript.

DOWN AND OUT SOCIETY WOMAN AGAIN LEADS

ALL HER FAMILY AND A HOST OF FRIENDS PLEASED

For a long time she made an upright fight against a sad case of nerves and ill health. Doctors, Sanitarians and Medicines had been tried without any improvement. Still she was a sturdy little woman and did her best to brace up and appear cheerful on account of the family trouble she gradually kept growing from bad to worse to the dismay of her husband and children.

Things were indeed looking tough when the housekeeper said to the husband, "I am going to break my rule and butt into family affairs for once even if I lose my job, for I firmly believe that the trouble with the mistress is that she has gone the 'Social Whirl' so hard she is all run down and her blood and nerves need the same medicine I took. Do you remember my condition last spring? I took Phosphated Iron and believe me it made a new woman of me in short order and I wish you would try it for the misses."

Ready to try anything the husband phoned to his druggist for a box and in a few days the whole family noticed the improvement. It just seemed as if the woman's whole body was starting for Phosphorus and Iron the way it took hold, her cheeks filled out, had a healthy rich color, appetite returned and she had more strength and vitality than in years, and absolute freedom from all nerve trouble, slept like a top.

The same story can be told by hundreds of men and women who have experienced the benefits of Phosphat-ed Iron. Every doctor will tell you that you must have plenty of Iron and Phosphorus in your system if you want healthy, strong bodies and nerves. Get a box of Phosphated Iron and have put up capsules only. Do not allow dealers to substitute tablets or pills.

"Lazy, child. I know all about

Jimmy had not come up to his father's expectations in regard to his studies at school and an explanation was demanded.

"Why is it," inquired the irate parent, "that you are at the bottom of

"I can't see that it makes any difference whether I am at the top or the bottom," replied Jimmy peacefully.
"You know they teach just the same at both ends."

Special Fitting

OF

GOSSARD CORSETS

FRIDAY, MARCH 30

Through a special arrangement with the H. W. Gossard company of Chicago, we engaged Miss N. P. McNally of their organization to assist our corsetiere in a special demonstration of Gossard Corsets.

The radical change in styles this season from the slinker slouch to the erect, well-poised, somewhat military form, calls for considerable care and attention in the fitting of your new corset.

There is a decided tendency toward the adoption of a smaller waist this season and a fitted bodice, with a return to the full skirt of former periods. All of this has a direct bearing on your corset. Authentic information regarding these new styles is yours for the asking during this demonstration.

You can come and be fitted to any of the newer models and make your selection at a later date, if you so desire. Whether you expect to purchase your corset at this time or not, we suggest that you arrange to attend this demonstration.

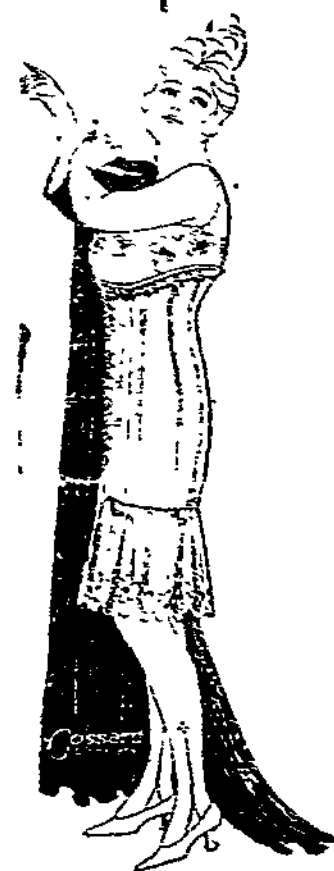

While the original front-lacing Gossard Corsets sold at $25 some ten years ago, increased manufacturing facilities and an international distribution have reduced the price until now you can purchase a Gossard Corset for as little as $5.00, $3.50, and $2.00.

It will be a privilege to serve you and to have you visit our Corset Department some time during this demonstration.

LARGE POOL OF OIL TAPPED BY WASHINGTON MAN IN KENTUCKY

An oil well, which it is believed will make 400 barrels a day, has been drilled in by the Kypawwa Oil company, formed almost entirely of Washington men, in the Allen county field in Southern Kentucky.

Apparently a large pool has been tapped as wells just recently finished in tracts adjoining that under lease to the Kypawwa company are making 200 barrels and 400 barrels a day. The Kypawwa well will probably surpass these.

The Kypawwa company has 1,890 acres under lease in Allen county, and much of this, in view of the excellent production of the first well and its location, seems certain of proving valuable. Drilling will be kept up and pushed as rapidly as possible.

The strike on the Kypawwa lease was made at a depth of 320 feet. Washington county wells usually vary from 2,000 to 3,000 feet in depth.

Officers of the Kypawwa company are: President, Hugh A. Rogers; vice president, C. E. Frazier; secretary and treasurer, J. H. Simmons, all of Washington. These officers with H. I. Babbitt and B. E. Cuyler constitute the board of directors. The lease was taken and the company formed through the efforts of J. H. Simmons.

CANONSBURG-VENICE ROAD IS BOOSTED WITH STATE

A delegation of Canonsburg, Venice and McDonald men visited the state highway department at Harrisburg Tuesday, urging state aid for the improvement of the Canonsburg-Venice highway. The legislature having made no appropriations, no definite financial assistance could be promised.

MISS EVANS ENTERTAINS FOR MRS. R. A. BAMFORD

Miss Golda R. Evans entertained the Chin Chin Club at her home on McKean avenue Tuesday evening. They had as honor guest Mrs. Raymond A. Bamford of Monongahela, who is a cousin of Miss Evans and a bride of a month. Music and fancy work were the diversions of the evening. A lunch was served by the hostess.

Strength of the Condor.

The enormous strength of the condor is equaled by his voracity and boldness. This immense bird often pounces upon small animals, but from the shape and lightness of his claws it is unable to carry anything very heavy, so he contents himself with fixing it against the ground with one of his claws, while with the other and his powerful beak he rends it to pieces. Gorged with food, the bird then becomes incapable of flight and may be approached, but any attempt at capture is furiously resisted. An American traveler in the Andes encountered a large condor just after it had finished a hearty banquet on a young sheep and foolishly attempted to seize the bird, with the result that he received a gash from its claw. Then he called up his two guides, and the three men maneuvered to take the bird alive. But every attempt was frustrated, and in the end one of the men killed it by a blow with a hatchet.

Equine Pedometers.

The whorls of hair on the coats of horses and other animals are natural pedometers, inasmuch as they register the locomotive activities of the animals on whose bodies they are found. The best examples and the greatest number of these hairy whorls and crests are found on the domestic horse. A notable instance is the graceful feathering that extends along the hollow of the flank, dividing the trunk of the animal from the hind quarters. There are also crests and whorls on the horse's chest and other parts of its body. A study of the action of the underlying muscles explains the origin of these peculiarities in the lay of the hair and furnishes the justification for calling them pedometers, although the analogy, in of course, merely superficial. —St. Louis Republic.

SLEPT ON THE MARCH.

Tired Soldiers Who Actually Walked While They Slumbered.

In an article, "Sleep for the Sleepless" in the World's Work the author quotes an eminent surgeon who made a study of sleep in the French army as follows:

"In the retreat from Mors to the Marne we had an extraordinary human experiment in which several hundred thousand men secured little sleep during nine days and in addition made forced marches and fought one of the greatest battles in history.

"How, then, did these men survive nine days apparently without opportunity for sleep? They did an extraordinary thing—they slept while they marched! Sleep fatigue slowed down their pace to a rate that would permit them to sleep while walking. When they halted they fell asleep. They slept in water and on rough ground, when suffering the pangs of hunger and thirst and even when severely wounded. They cared not for capture, not even for death, if only they could sleep.

"The unvaried testimony of the soldiers was that every one at times slept on the march. They passed through villages asleep. When sleep deepened they were awakened by comrades. They slept in water, on stones, in brush or in the middle of the road as if they had suddenly fallen in death. With the ever oncoming lines of the enemy no man was safe who dropped out of the ranks, for no matter on what pretext he fell out sleep conquered him. Asleep many were captured. That the artillery men slept on horseback was evidenced by the fact that every man lost his cap."

LOOK OUT OF YOUR WINDOW.

Mayhap You Are Missing a Wonderful Moving Picture Show.

Houses are so common people are so common, and windows are so common! How rare it is for any one to realize how important it is to stand up and look out of a window! Have you, for example, ever looked out of every window in your house? If not try it and see what a new idea you will get of the universe.

Just looking out of one window is a wonderful thing to do. We do it sometimes when there is a big storm raging, and what a sensation we get! Clouds burst, the rain washes down in torrents. We think maybe the world is coming to an end. Out of the window, even in placid weather, there is always a great sight. We have a reserved seat to the greatest show now going on. About everything is happening out there that there is! Streams of universal knowledge flow in upon us through that window. All our senses become revitalized.

Out of every window there is almost always a tree in sight somewhere, even in the city. Take note of that tree, with its roots deep in the soil and its branches spreading out into the air. That tree will connect you up with Mother Earth. Then there is always the sky, leading you into unknown depths of thought and feeling, and there are always people passing—world comrades! It is the greatest moving picture show in the world—Life.

SIX SIDED SNOW CRYSTALS.

That Is Nature's Law, but Why It Is So Science Cannot Explain.

Snow crystals obey an immutable law of six. They are six sided jewels or six pointed stars. They never answer to the law of four or five. Snow is crystallized water, and water always crystallizes in six sided forms. Why? No one ever will know. There is no more apparent reason for the sixness of crystallized water than there is for the monoclinic prisms of sugar crystals. Water and sugar and the complex minerals which make the granite rock all follow laws which are utterly unchangeable, but which are, as far as we can see, without any special reason. It is as profitable to speculate why the chlorophyll of vegetation is green and why the blood of animals is red.

The whiteness of the snow is unimpeachable. It is due to the fusion of prismatic colors scintillating from the countless surfaces of minute crystals. Human science comprehends this. It also comprehends the fact that snow is a poor conductor of heat and thus prevents terrestrial radiation and keeps the earth and the things in the earth snug and warm under the white blanket which is softer and finer than lamb's wool or eiderdown. Science knows why snow is white and why it is beneficent, but it cannot explain the law of six.

It is well that snow cannot be altogether explained. It is one of the earth's most beautiful mysteries. It would lose something in beauty were it to lose all its mystery.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Courses and Dishes.

Three courses seem to have been the customary menu in medieval times for a state banquet, less ceremonial feasts comprising only two and no private dinner more than one. But each course might comprise from eight to a dozen different dishes. Thus at the wedding banquet of Henry V. there were only three courses, yet over thirty different dishes are mentioned in the records, irrespective of fruits and wines.—London Chronicle.

NOTICE TO SICK WOMEN

Positive Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieves Suffering.

Bridgeton, N.J.—"I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for inflammation and other weaknesses. I was very irregular and would have terrible pains so that I could hardly take a step. Sometimes I would be so miserable that I could not sweep a room. I doctored part of the time but felt no change. I later took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt a change for the better. I took it until I was in good healthy condition. I recommend the Pinkham remedies to all women as I have used them with such good results."—Mrs. MILDRED T. CURRINGS, 322 Harmony St., Penn's Grove, N. J.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence of the excellence of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the distressing ills of women such as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, backache, painful periods, nervousness and kindred ailments.

MARY PICKFORD COMES TO MAJESTIC THEATRE TODAY

Today Mary Pickford is appearing at the Majestic theatre in her newest photoplay released by the Artcraft pictures, "A Poor Little Rich Girl," adapted from the well-known book and play of the same name by Eleanor Gates. As an ideal vehicle for "Little Mary," it is readily felt that this story affords Miss Pickford one of the best motion picture subjects ever secured for her. The title forecasts the story. It will be featured two days at the Majestic by Manager Sweeney, today and tomorrow.

CROWDS WITNESS CLARK PLAY ON FIRST NIGHT

Large crowds witnessed the first day's production of Marguerite Clark in "Snow White" at the Coyle theatre Tuesday night. This is not the first time that Miss Clark has played the charming role of "Snow White" as she was the star of the stage version of the same tale which created a veritable sensation at the Little Theatre in New York under the direction of Winthrop Ames. The story is a fairy tale and one of the most popular with children and those adults who remember their childhood this including us all "Snow White" will again be presented today.

WILL DISTRIBUTE PRIZES AT THE PALACE TONIGHT

As on the first night the Amateur Cabaret contest, with about 15 local performers, made a hit Tuesday evening at the Palace theatre. The same program that was offered to the audiences on the first night was featured. In addition to the talent program a vaudeville bill of high-class numbers was offered. Announcement of being made by Manager Barnhart that prizes for the amateur contest will be distributed tonight. Some will be cash prizes and others tickets of admission. The amateur contest is directed by Harry L. Barnhart.

MODERN PRESCRIBING

DOCTORS METHODS BETTER THAN THEY WERE YEARS AGO

The Patient's Lot Also Much Improved

Large Doses of Nauseating Medicine No Longer Necessary

Our forefathers did not have such a delightful time, after all. Just think of the roundabout way they were obliged to accomplish the many things that are done by us every day, almost without thought, by means of modern inventions. Then think of what happened to them when they were sick. Lucky was the man who was not pounced upon by a doctor and often literally bled to death.

That was only a starter of what was soon to follow. Long, deep draughts brewed from horrible-tasting herbs were continually administered. Remedies without number each worse than the other, followed quickly. No wonder so many of our ancestors died young. No wonder life insurance statistics show that we come from a short-lived race.

It is in medicine like everything else. The day of barbarism in treatment is nearly over. No longer does the doctor deprive the patient of his very life's blood right at a time when he needs every particle of strength. No longer does he compel the poor sufferer to absorb untold amounts of barks, herbs and mineral solutions right at a time when Nature should be left to herself to straighten out what might only be a slight trouble. The modern physician knows that he can administer the vital principles of his remedies in a concentrated form. You do not find your doctor brewing a tea or asking you to chew huge quantities of Cinchona Bark where Quinine is necessary. No longer does he administer a bolus of Opium to deaden pain. Not much. A hypodermic syringe charged with the active principles of opium; morphine does the work better and does not do as much damage for Nature to repair.

Right on this line a discovery was made that proved to be the most valuable one yet made. It was that of Vinol, which is nothing more or less than a concentrated extract of the active medicinal principles found in the liver of the live cod combined with beef peptone, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates.

The above explanation is about all that is necessary to give one, in order that he may understand the full value of this discovery. Every one knows the uses for which cod liver oil has been prescribed. Every one knows its objectionable features. Every one realizes that there are many cases of wasting diseases that could have been cured by the use of cod liver oil, had it been possible to administer the obnoxious remedy; but every one does not know that when they were taking cod liver oil in its old form they were absorbing into the system a vast amount of vile-smelling, obnoxious-tasting grease that was absolutely powerless of doing them any good, but were simply taking it because it was a vehicle that conveyed the peculiar medicinal principles that it was the intention of the doctor to give to them.

Here is here this new discovery will benefit the world. These principles, separated from the fat and all other unnecessary features, dissolved in a delicious table wine can now be administered in Vinol even to the most delicate patient without its being apparent that cod liver oil or anything connected with it is being taken. The greater strength of the new preparation will also enable the patient to receive a greater amount of necessary medicine than was possible to administer before. The consequence will be that the good for which the medicine is desired will be accomplished in a much quicker time. The harm that was formerly caused to stomachs already weakened by disease will be entirely averted and the result will be that Vinol in but a few years will entirely supersede as a medicine, cod liver oil in any other known form. At Piper's Drug Store in this city they are always glad to give more information about Vinol.
